JAPANESE ARE NOT SATISFIED

The Fighting About Port Arthur Is Becoming More and More Intense Every Day.

UNCLE SAM TAKES A HAND TODAY

American Consul Holds the Warning Hand to Japan in a Neutral Harbor by an Armed Cruiser.

(Special by Scripps-McRae.)
Rome, Aug. 22.—A telegram from Chefoo states the Japanese losses in the last assault on Port Arthur were twenty-five hundred including sixty-three officers.

Ordered East

Rome, Aug. 22.—It is announced today that the Italian squadron in the far east has been ordered to co-operate with the Americans to maintain the neutrality of China.

Another Meeting

Shanghai, Aug. 22.—The consuls held another meeting today. The Taotai has given the Askold and Grozov until noon tomorrow to leave the port. No repairs on the vessels will be permitted. The Askold, however, cannot cross the bar this week owing to the low tide.

Confirms Story

Washington, Aug. 22.—A dispatch to the state department this morning from Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai, confirms the press dispatch regarding the entrance to the harbor of the Japanese torpedo boats followed by the American vessel Chauncey. He says the Russian consul still refuses to comply with the order to dismantle or leave the harbor. Acting Secretary of State Adele and acting Secretary of the Navy Darling are now in conference on the subject presented in the dispatch.

Too Wet

Shantung, Aug. 22.—Heavy rains for the past few days have made the country about LiaoYang difficult for military operations and little fighting has been done. The Japanese, however, are strengthening the strategic position they hold and continue to secure reinforcements from the south. The armies under Kodama, now concentrated about LiaoYang, contain more than 20,000 men. Their northern and southern outposts are not more than twenty-five miles apart and are constantly getting closer. The Russian troops which were at Anshanchan now are at LiaoYang and the Japanese have occupied the former Russian positions.

After Submarines

New York, Aug. 22.—The fact that several Japanese are guests of John Holland, builder of submarine boats, has led to a report that the Japanese government is contracting for a number of submarines. The Japanese have been at Mr. Holland's home almost every day during the past week or ten days, spending much of their time at the inventor's home. It is said they were going over drawings and engaged in earnest discussion of submarine boats. Mr. Holland is emphatic in asserting that they were with him solely as individuals interested in the workings of his invention.

Rain Stops Hostilities

Heungkioing, Manchuria, via Fusan and Seoul, Aug. 22.—Heavy rains which have swept away all semblance of roads have interfered with the progress of either army and consequently there has been no fighting, other than small affairs between the outposts, during the last few days.

Scouts report the presence of a Russian force of five divisions, supported by a strong body of cavalry, entrenched in front of the Japanese line. These entrenchments are reported to be of the strongest character and will likely be stubbornly defended.

Chase for Russian Spies

At the headquarters of Gen. Kuroki in southern Manchuria, Aug. 18, via Fusan and Seoul, Aug. 22.—It has rained steadily for four days and both of the lower roads are covered with ten feet of water and are absolutely impassable. A number of Chinese and horses of the commissary department have drowned crossing the Liao river at the ford.

Russian spies have been located in the corn fields near the outposts and large scouting parties are searching for them. The relative positions of the two armies remain unchanged.

To State Facts

Worcester, Aug. 22.—The meeting of foreign consuls has resulted in the preparation of a statement of the established facts regarding the Russian ships in the harbor.

More Troops

Chefoo, Aug. 22.—According to reliable information from Port Arthur the Japanese have received thirty thousand reinforcements from the north.

At Sakhalin

St. Petersburg, Aug. 22.—The Russian commandant at Korskovo Island, Sakhalin, sends the following: "Since seven this morning the enemy have bombarded and destroyed the Korskovo government houses. One of the enemy's ships appeared on the horizon at six this morning and approached within five and a quarter miles of the shore and bombarded Korskovo until eight-fifteen when the vessel turned and disappeared. The damage to the town is quite inconsiderable. There were no casualties."

Another Battle

Vladivostok, Aug. 22.—Captain Berinskii was wounded in a battle with the Japanese squadron August 14th and buried Wednesday with imposing military honors. Most of the wounded officers are expected to get well. The recovery of 312 wounded men is assured. Vice Admiral Skerloff complimented the survivors and distributed among them the cross of Saint George. The Gromoboi and Rossia presented a sad appearance. The smoke stacks show great rents and the masts and bristles look like sieves. Guns are dismantled and enormous holes are in the hulls.

Tokio, Aug. 22.—According to advices a severe storm came up after the sinking of the Russian cruiser Novik by the Japanese cruisers Chitose and Akitomishima yesterday preventing the Japanese from rescuing any of the crew of the Novik, numbering 334.

Retire Before Artillery.

The fighting resulting in the capture of this fort was exceedingly severe. The position was first subjected to a bombardment for over forty-eight hours.

Then the Japanese infantry assaulted it and compelled the Russians to retire. The Russians' artillery then directed a heavy fire on the spot, compelling the Japanese in turn to retire.

The Japanese have swept the Russians from Pigeon bay and captured the northermost fort of the western line of inner defenses at Port Arthur. The Russian artillery prevents the Japanese from occupying the forts on Pigeon bay.

Uphold Neutrality.

Shanghai, Aug. 22.—A Japanese destroyer, with decks cleared for action, entered the river here Sunday afternoon and anchored off the dock where the Russian cruiser Askold is undergoing repairs.

The United States destroyer Chauncey at once took a position between the Japanese and Russian warships.

The United States monitor Monadnock and two torpedo boat destroyers have been ordered to be ready to protect the neutrality of Shanghai.

A Japanese squadron, consisting of a battleship and two cruisers, is approaching and is now forty miles off Woosung, the outside port of Shanghai.

Russians Refuse to Disarm.

The Russian consul general here flatly refuses to disarm the Askold and the Russian torpedo boat destroyers or to order them to leave the harbor.

The taotai has notified American Consul Goodnow, who is deaf of the consular body, that China cannot protect the foreign settlements. He contends that Russia ignores the orders issued by China, and that China has not the means of making her obey them.

Consul Goodnow has called a meeting of the consular body to take joint action for the protection of foreign inhabitants. It is believed the consul will arrange means to strengthen the hands of the taotai in dealing with the matter of the Russian warships here.

Tokio, Aug. 22.—The Russian cruiser Novik was sunk Sunday morning off the port of Korsakovo, island of Sakhalin, 650 miles northeast of Vladivostok, by the Japanese cruisers Chitose and Tushima, after a running fight which began Saturday and ended Sunday morning.

Capt. Sukechiro Takahashi, commander of the Chitose, reports that he first attacked the Novik Saturday afternoon. The Novik, being the fleetest ship in the Russian navy, made a running fight of it, and gradually drew off toward Sakhalin, the Japanese ships pursuing.

The Novik apparently was damaged in Saturday's fighting, but the Russians managed to make temporary repairs.

The Japanese ships continued the pursuit, and on Sunday morning renewed the engagement. The Novik was in a sinking condition as it neared the coast, and the Russian captain therefore ran his vessel on to the beach, where it lay half covered with the sea.

Fate of Crew Not Known.

The fate of the crew of the Novik is not known, but it is thought they abandoned their vessel and landed at Korsakovo.

It is generally thought here that the Chitose and Tushima steamed in close to the Novik early Sunday morning and completely destroyed the stranded warship.

PEACE COMES TO GOVERNOR'S PARTY

(Special by Scripps-McRae.)
Madison, Wis., August 22.—Governor La Follette withdrew his demand for an increase of $350,000 in the bond of State Treasurer J. J. Kempf.

The experts of the bonding company found the books of the department in proper shape and discovered that the shortage of $3,400 was due to errors of bookkeeping by W. T. Duke, deposit clerk. Mr. Kempf discharged Mr. Duke and William Richter, correspondence clerk.

Japan's Fractional Currency. To have a notion of the point to which economy can be pushed one need learn the currency of Japan. In yen when not depreciated it is worth $1, and now considerably less—perhaps a half. It is equal to 100 yen, equal to 10 rin, equal to 10 ch, equal to 100 koin.

SIX FIREMEN ARE HURT BY BOLT OF LIGHTNING

(Severe Electrical Storm Visits Chicago and Inflicts Considerable Damage on New Buildings.)

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The severe electrical storm that visited Chicago Sunday evening caused heavy damage to property in various parts of the city, and one bolt of lightning is responsible for severe injuries sustained by six firemen, all of whom are now lying in St. Elizabeth's hospital in a critical condition.

The storm followed one of the hottest days of the summer, and it was an electrical disturbance of unusual severity. The rainfall was copious, nearly two inches of water falling in seventy minutes.

Roofs were torn from several buildings nearing completion. In Oak Park and Austin, crops were damaged to a great extent in the surrounding country, basements of buildings everywhere were flooded. The consequent loss will reach high in the thousands. Traction service was severely interfered with; passengers were imprisoned between stations in elevated cars. Pickpockets reaped a harvest in the crowds which sought shelter in every available place.

Peter Losher of Tomah, formerly an engineer on the Valley division and recently roundhouse foreman here, dropped dead of heart failure.

QUARTER OF CENTURY IS PASSED IN HER BED

(Child of 5 Accepts Doctor's Statement That She Will Never Walk Again and Refuses to Try.)

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 22.—Held bedfast for twenty-five years, apparently by the power of suggestion, Miss Ella Conklin of this city, 30 years old, is learning to walk. At the age of 5 her back was injured by a fall, and the physician in attendance said she never could walk again.

She went to bed, and has stayed there since, eating no solid food and hardly moving. Recently, having been taken to a hospital because her stepmother became ill and could care for her no longer, she was examined by a physician, and he could find no reason why the patient should not walk. She now moves about, takes solid food, and is gaining strength.

TORIC ENGLAND.

DATED STRATFORD-ON-AVON

Descriptions Are Vivid, the Scenes Depicted Realistic—Letter Is Full of Interest.Stratford-on-Avon, Aug. 5, 1904.
Special correspondence to the Gazette.

We are in London after spending a day at Brighton, the largest and most popular summer resort in England. The horse races began August first and we happened to catch a racing special going down to the city in gala attire and well-filled with visitors. However the crowd wasn't interested in the same part of town that we were and so we had a quiet time on the beach. One goes East along the shore on an electric train to old Kempston to get a nearer view of the chalk cliffs, then in the other direction west, we took an automobile which runs along the sea shore passing the fine hotels and the beautifully kept terraces to West Brighton and return. Brighton does not compare in beauty to our Newport, nor is the beach nearly as fine, but possibly I am prejudiced. One delightful trip out from London is to Canterbury, a quaint old town the residence of the archbishop. The cathedral is as interesting as any we have visited. We were shown the spot where the tomb of Thomas A. Becket was and all about it the stone was worn in a deep groove by the pilgrims who came and knelt by his shrine. Henry the Seventh, however, pillaged the tomb removing the precious stones and gold plate and dissolved it so that even the bones have been lost sight of. In the crypt of the cathedral is a well preserved chapel where French Huguenots held services every Sunday as early as 1515 and every Sunday afternoon even at the present time their descendants hold a service entirely in French in this chapel. The day before we were there 400 met to celebrate their 350th anniversary.

One morning, leaving London Bridge at ten o'clock, we rode five hours up the Thames river to Hampton Court. One of our party said she saw a fisherman bait his hook, catch, dress, cook and eat a fish while we were passing, so slowly did the Queen Elizabeth move, but at three o'clock we had reached our destination and the time had passed pleasantly. We were amused by having a gentleman near us write on the edge of a newspaper, "Those are Yankee Girls" for the benefit of his young daughter, who forthwith proceeded to inspect us minutely. However it is not difficult to tell American women from the English, their dress and carriage is so different and we are not so fond of wearing jewelry. Our boat passed over the coarse from Putney to Moulsecoomb where the Oxford-Cambridge boat races are contested. Beautiful cottages, some almost palatial, surrounded by exquisitely kept lawns line the banks. All sorts of row boats are to be seen, young men punting and young women rowing, men and women eating their lunches in boats under overhanging boughs and houses, the quaintest prettiest inventions for summer outings, now moored by this bend in the river and now by that; all this made a beautiful scene. The English say we are particularly favored this season as far as weather is concerned, generally they have much more rain and much more cooler weather. It has been perfectly charming.

The palace of Hampton Court is the largest palace in Great Britain, by Henry the Eighth. Eight hundred of its one thousand rooms are occupied now by pensioners of his crown. One interesting room shown us was a large ball room with high vaulted ceiling where Henry the Eighth danced with the court ladies. Lely's paintings of the famous and Kuebler's portraits of the beauties of the court of Henry the VIII, in one corner stands an old clock which hasn't been moved for 200 years. It is wound once in a year and keeps very correct time.

We returned to London through Teddington and Wickenham with which the name of Pope is associated and where Horace Walpole had his home called Strawberry Hill. The ride by omnibus and street car was charming in the late afternoon. The country of all England seems like one grand piece of landscape gardening with its hedges and pastures, great trees and streams and perfect country roads.

About the most delightful day of the London visit was spent at Windsor where we were shown the Albert Memorial chapel containing many royal tombs. We had taken all through the royal stables where there are many fine horses and almost countless carriages though the groom said that King Edward had twenty of the finest carriages and pairs of horses at Cowes, I believe, or at any rate, where some races were going on. From Windsor to Eaton where the sons of the wealth and aristocracy have attended college since 1440 is only five minutes

THE PEOPLE ALL

In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's
Hercules, /

This word of late has been in everyone's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found, who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERCULES does the work. Well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERCULES means a destroyer or killer of "Hercles." Now "Hercles" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar malady causes druff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the malady that NEWBRO'S HERCULES promptly destroys after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists. walk, then on by carriages to Stoke Poges is a beautiful drive of about three miles. Here Gray wrote his famous eulogy and here he and his mother are buried in the quiet, peaceful cemetery just outside an ancient church dating from 1100. Two new trees seven hundred years old stand near by. Inside, one is shown the family pew of Wm. Penn, the Pennsylvania Quaker for here he lived and has a son buried here. It is really a charming spot.

We had two Sundays at London. One morning we attended a service in St. Paul's cathedral and the other I attended a service in John Wesley's church called now City Road Chapel. It is a very home-like place with busts of Wesleyan ministers about the walls. The pulpit used by Wesley is still occupied by the ministers every Sunday. Adjacent is a small old church year where Wesley is buried and nearby his house. It was all very interesting to me. We spent some time at Westminster Abbey, the British museum, the National gallery, and were much interested in the Wallace and Taft collections of paintings, those of Rosa Bonheur, Turner, Meissner, Watts, Burne-Jones and Watts appealed to us most.

On Gray's tomb in Westminster are these words, "The World's a jest; all things show it." "I thought so once and now I know it." On Ben Johnson's, all that it says is "O rare Ben Johnson." Gray wrote on his mother's tomb in Stoke Poges these words, "She was a mother of many children, only one of them had the misfortune to survive her."

The parliament buildings which the really magnificent, especially where the House of Lords convenes the law courts where the judges and barristers wear grey wigs and black gowns, and "The Tower" are among other interesting places. We were in Hyde Park one afternoon when Queen Alexandra and the Duke of Connaught drove by. We were startled by hearing some one say, "That's she, with the mauve parasol," and surely enough it was the Queen. She is very dignified and young looking. A little later the Duchess of Marlborough rode past us. Her servants were much more gorgeously attired than those of the Queen.

To-day we are in Oxford and have this afternoon out to Woodstock, half an hours ride by train, where Blenheim castle, the Duke of Marlborough's estate is. The Dutch through the park and were shown through five or six of the rooms of the palace. We have been through the state apartments in Rome, Paris and at Windsor, but we have not seen such taste displayed anywhere as in this palace and the rooms seem so home-like. Though the rooms are large the furniture is arranged in such a way and there are so many personal belongings about, that it all seems delightfully inhabitable. They have the largest private pipe organ in England. It stands at the end of a very long room, half way down which is a grand piano. The floor has eight enormous polar bear skins rugs and writing desks, divans, comfortable chairs, and palms give the place a charming air.

A fine portrait of the present Duchess and one of each of her little sons hangs upon the walls with many other portraits. We just discovered this evening that our hostess here in Oxford was 30 years old, when the present Duke's grandfather was living the wife of the lodger keeper at Blenheim. Her son was born there and he is now a professor of music of some note in the college. Her husband is one of the twenty survivors of the Light Brigade and in one corner of the room the poem of Tennyson is transcribed. Tennyson himself gave a copy of the poem with his autograph to each of the survivors. We walked through four or five of the different colleges this morning. We were fortunate to-day in meeting a young English woman whom we saw first at Stena, Italy, then by chance in Lucerne at our pension, again in London accidentally on the street and again on the train this afternoon. Often it is difficult to understand the English. A story is told that in a case before a judge, a witness knew so many of the details that the judge finally asked her if she kept a diary, and she thinking he said dairy, said, "Oh no, I keep a fried fish shop," and it is true that they say "stysium" for station and "wye" for way, and so on. Asking the direction to the depot one day a man said, "Take the first turn to the right, go to the top of the road, you can't miss it," and we didn't. However the people are charming and we did not France and Italy was until we found that it is delightful to understand and be understood. Our crossing from Dieppe to New Haven was an odd regarding it the better. Two of us were too ill to notice what was going on and the other two were. However the trip is only four hours much afraid they would be that they held themselves entirely aloof. However the trip is only four hours and as an old gentleman said to his wife who sat near me, "too ill and pale to move, 'Well wife, it is an experience."

Home Coming at Watertown

The second annual home coming of former residents of Watertown, Wis., will take place September 4, 1904. The visitors last year numbered about 4000. The Watertown club of Milwaukee started the move one year ago and large excursions are promised from that city, Chicago and many Wisconsin cities. Clanden's full military orchestra will accompany the excursionists from Milwaukee and will render music on Troll Island during the afternoon and evening. A feature of the morning will be a big parade of excursionists and military and civic societies. The city will be in gala attire and a generous welcome accorded all.

News for the Railroad Men.

There is a possibility that the 1904 lease of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern will be taken from the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway company. The road forms the Rock Island's outlet to the Twin Cities. It is claimed by the stockholders that the Rock Island management has neglected the property for the purpose of acquiring it at a price far below its actual worth. Many of the stockholders of the Cedar Rapids road are reported to have banded together for the purpose of preventing the Moore Bros. from accomplishing their object, and steps may be taken to make the Rock Island surrender its lease.

It is not likely, however, that the stockholders will be able to wrest the property from the Rock Island without a great struggle. The Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern is now operated as the northern division of the Rock Island, and the latter cannot afford to let it go, as it would deprive it of an outlet to St. Paul and Minneapolis. Formerly the Rock Island used the so-called Albert Lea route.

The Rock Island's new line between St. Louis and Kansas City was opened for passenger traffic yesterday.

New York Central's Plans

A. H. Smith, general manager of the New York Central, confirms the report that it is the intention of that road to extend the electric traction system entirely across New York state. Plans for the installation of electricity on the Niagara frontier are now being worked out in the chief engineer's office in New York. The system to be used in the electrification of the steam lines has not been decided on, but it has been determined not to equip the steam tracks with the overhead trolley because it is the intention to continue the use of steam locomotives for freight traffic.

Last of Prepaid Orders

Transcontinental roads have notified eastern connections that they have decided to withdraw all prepaid orders from eastern territory. Similar action was taken some time ago by the roads in the Western Passenger association. Consequently only straight through tickets will be sold hereafter from points in the east to western and transcontinental territory. Eastern roads have been striving to attain this for many years.

New Orleans Fears Discrimination. The New Orleans board of trade has appointed a standing committee of grain exporters and ship agents to investigate the freight rates and transportation charges of several railroads carrying grain from the northwest and middle north to New Orleans. The purpose is to bring pressure to bear to counteract any discrimination which may exist against New Orleans in favor of North Atlantic ports or in favor of Galveston.

A special excursion train from Mineral Point to Wisconsin Dells arrived in the city Sunday morning over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road at 9:30 and had about eleven coaches loaded with excursionists who spent the day at Wisconsin's most picturesque resort.

Coming Attractions.

A critic whose study of plays and productions has been the labor of more than a quarter of a century, thus writes of a drama that he believes will be as much discussed and as highly dandled.

"In searching the greatest of all books for historical material and in selecting the story of John the Baptist for re-telling in dramatic form, Messrs. Gordon and Bennett have shown sagacious daring and cultural discrimination. The massive allegorical, musical, spectacular and intellectual production of "The Holy City" is not only the most important enterprise of its successful offering of the present season. The beautiful story told with dignity and power, appears to have had its every word considered with reverence and love; with the simplicity of truth there is also shown the splendor, each condition accentuating the beauty of the dramatic theme. In no other company for more than this is so necessary to observe that which is technically called the "atmosphere" of a play, therefore the employment of actors who possess superior talent is imperative. Mechanical work on this drama began long ago, for months models of its scenes have been in stage carpenters' hands; a more satisfying, complete and praiseworthy organization than that presenting "The Holy City" will not be seen this year." The performance at the Myers Grand Opera House will be given to an unusual number of those who confidentially anticipate keen delight.

AMONG THE WORLD'S WORKERS

News Notes From Various Sources of Great Interest to the Workingman.

LABOR NOTES.

In June the number employed in the coal mining industries of Great Britain was greater by 21 per cent than a year ago.

A decade ago the laborer had to work 18 and 20 hours for less than he gets for nine and ten now.

The worker in a Massachusetts factory gets 27 per cent. of what he produces, while the unorganized laborers in South Carolina gets only 19 per cent. yet the Massachusetts labor produces in one year $715 more for his employer than the laborer in South Carolina.

A call has been issued for the election of delegates to a national political labor party convention to be held in Chicago, Ill., August 29. Representatives of the unions affiliated with the Chicago Federation of Labor are behind the movement. It is the intention to form the new political party of working men, farmers, single taxers, Turner societies and economic reform bodies.

The Royal Commission on Labor Disputes created in England last year is making little headway. Trade unions and labor organizations in all parts of the country have refused assistance and information of any kind toward making the tribunal of any value, owing to the fact there are no representatives of organized labor on the commission.

STEAL TEAM FROM LIVERYMAN

New Baden, Ill., Man Is Victim of Man and Woman With Poodle.

Carlyle, Ill., Aug. 22.—William Stoeckel, a liveryman at New Baden, southwest of Carlyle, is the victim of a daylight theft. A man giving his name as Fred Easton hired one of his best span of horses with a buggy for a drive to a neighboring town, claiming that he would return the next day. After waiting four days Stoeckel notified the sheriff of the occurrence. He in turn notified the police in various towns, but thus far no trace of the man or property has been found. The stranger was accompanied by a woman and a poodle dog. A large reward is offered for the capture of the man.

Deep-Level Mining.
Great advance in deep level mining is the result of the advance in engineering science. Some years ago three thousand feet was considered a great depth, but this limit has been much exceeded. At Fleury, Belgium, thirty six hundred feet has been touched, while at Calumet, Houghton and Tumrock in the United States, mines from forty-five hundred to fifty-four hundred feet have been worked. The temperature is the great thing to be overcome.

Evils of Darkness.

Florence Nightingale declared that "a dark house is almost always unhealthy; always an ill-aired house. Want of light stops growth and promotes scrofula, rickets, consumption, etc., especially among children. People lose their health in a dark house and if they get ill they cannot get well again in it."

Early History of Coffee.

The use of coffee beans was first known to the Abyssinians, but the employment of coffee as a beverage was first recorded in the fifteenth century.

Two varieties of "guhaw" were known.

One was a preparation from the shells of the seeds, which was known as "gicharyat," and one from the seeds proper, which was known as "bounnyat."—Bulletin of Pharmaceutical Science.

SORES AND ULCERS SHOW A BAD CONDITION OF THE BLOOD

When the blood is in bad condition a bruise, cut, scratch, or any slight injury to the flesh, is apt to become an ugly-looking sore or ulcer. Sometimes a boil, blister or pimple is the beginning of a large-eating ulcer or open, discharging sore. Often the blood is naturally bad, and is that way from birth, and such people suffer with various kinds of sores from infancy through old age. The blood may become so weak and watery from the effects of malarial sickness, debility or some old chronic trouble, that the impurities break out in bad sores on the lower extremities or other part of the body. There is always some morbid, unhealthy matter in the blood that keeps the sore discharging, and must be gotten out before it will heal. Washes and salves, while cleansing, sooth ing and helpful, will not do it, because they do not reach the poisoned blood; but S. S. S. cures and purifies the diseased blood, and when this is accomplished the place heals. Where the health has been impaired it restores strength and vigor to the system, improves the appetite and digestion, and tones up the nerves. Purifying the blood is the surest way to get rid of an old sore or ulcer. Medical advice is free.

Common boil appeared on the calf of my right limb. I used simple home remedies but the disease refused to heal. I then consulted a doctor, and he said it was a boil. I sot it again rapidly, but an attack of typhoid fever began again as soon as it was healed, causing a bracket. I was completely and permanently cured.

Beer is Good for You

When the patient is weak, the doctor says "Drink Beer."

When the nerves need food, beer is the usual prescription. So in insomnia; so in nervousness.

The doctor knows that malt and hops are nerve foods and tonics. And he knows that most people drink too little fluid to rid the system of waste.

He knows that pure beer is good for you.

That is why he says "Schlitz." He knows that Schlitz beer is brewed in absolute cleanliness. It is even cooled in filtered air. And every bottle is sterilized.

Half the cost of our brewing is spent to insure absolute purity. Ask for the brewery bottling.

VERDICT OF THE PARTY

From the report of the Committee on Credentials to the REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, which was unanimously adopted by that convention, June 22d, 1904.

Your committee report it to be their final judgment that the convention which elected said John G. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Babcock and Emil Haasen as delegates at large, and their alternates at large, to this convention from the state of Wisconsin WAS THE REGULAR CONVENTION OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN WISCONSIN, and that the delegates elected by it are the regular elected delegates at large from the state of Wisconsin to the republican convention, and, as such, are entitled to seats in this convention.

ONE LAW FOR BOTH.

It is a noteworthy fact that the courts in this country have uniformly decided against monopoly in all important case brought before them involving the issue of monopoly. The three successive decisions of the United States Supreme Court in the Trans-Missouri case, the Trunk Line association case and the Northern Securities case are instances of this. The common law is against monopolies, and when the common law does not hold good the courts have enforced the special legislation passed to supply the place of common law.

The courts are charged frequently lies, and where the common law does not hold good against labor, and the courts which have shown such firmness in enforcing this law against the corporations are now displaying the same firmness in enforcing it against the labor organizations. The decision of the Appellate Court of Illinois in the case of the Kellogg Switchboard Company is an instance of this. The court has decided that an agreement that the company should employ none but members of certain unions, thus discriminating in favor of one class of men and excluding all others, is an unlawful contract, inasmuch as it tends to create a monopoly in favor of the members of those unions. In other words, this decision holds that a "closed shop" agreement is unlawful because it is a monopoly.

But the law of monopoly is directed not merely against capital; it holds good against labor, and the courts which have shown such firmness in enforcing this law against the corporations are now displaying the same firmness in enforcing it against the labor organizations. The decision of the Appellate Court of Illinois in the case of the Kellogg Switchboard Company is an instance of this. The court has decided that an agreement that the company should employ none but members of certain unions, thus discriminating in favor of one class of men and excluding all others, is an unlawful contract, inasmuch as it tends to create a monopoly in favor of the members of those unions. In other words, this decision holds that a "closed shop" agreement is unlawful because it is a monopoly.

Now, it is a poor rule that will not work both ways. If the law of monopoly is to be enforced against capital, it must also be enforced against labor. Capital cannot complain that it has been barred from establishing a combination to regulate competition, because it is a monopoly, and at the same time call for a stern enforcement of the law against monopoly in the case of trades unions working for the closed shop. Labor organizations, on the other hand, cannot with consistency urge the authorities to enforce the anti-monopoly law against the corporations and at the same time hold that it is right to enforce its policy of the closed shop. Yet that inconsistent attitude is exactly that which to a large extent exists on both sides, and it is this inconsistency which confuses public opinion and is responsible for its wavering attitude on the question of capital and labor. It is unable to give its entire support to capital, while insisting that the law of competition shall have free play as regards the employment of labor, seeks to regulate and sometimes to destroy competition as regards the sale of commodities. On the other hand, it is unable to give its entire support to organized labor, because that attempts to establish the same monopoly which is so objectionable in the case of capital. When one side or the other arrives at a consistent policy it will have the support of public opinion. But there cannot be one law for capital and another law for labor. If one may establish a monopoly, the other may do so; if one may regulate competition, the other may do so. If the law of supply and demand is to prevail in the labor market, without let or hindrance, then the same law should freely prevail in all the branches of commerce and industry. The courts have set an example of consistency. Now let capital and labor get on one side or the other, and not attempt to keep on both.

It is fortunate at least that we have courts which are firm in applying one law for all, so that capital and labor and rich and poor shall have equal justice.

If Davis did forget to write a grammatically constructed sentence in his acceptance speech he showed that he wrote it himself. However there is no danger. Mister Democrat, he will never have to exhibit himself as Vice-President and if you leave him on the ticket he will deal you out the golden shekels you want so much.

There is no need for the common council to waste the cities money passing ordinances if the cities officers do not enforce them. There are too many dead letter ordinances on the books now.

Chicago strikers claim they have a big stick up their sleeves but the packers seem to have the handle end of this same club and also seem to be able to wield it pretty freely.

Acts of violence which occur in the stockyard districts should not be attributed to the striking union men. The worst ruffians in these crowds usually are men who will not work even if they have a chance.

President Donnelly does not think that the country at large understands what the strikers are striking for. Perhaps they do not but the country at large certainly understand when the meat gets higher.

Judge Bryant will sit at a remarkable meeting on September 12th when he and his committee will try to bolster up the steal they perpetrated last May. It will be like satan sitting in judgment at the last day.

It is hard work for the LaFollette leaders to divide the goats from the sheep but they are fast alienating all semblance of republicanism in their actions.

Now they talk of taking poor old Mister Davis off the Democratic ticket just because he does not know his three Rabi's well enough. Too bad Grandpa.

How about the dog ordinance? Where is the dog catcher? Where are the dogs whose license is not paid? Why does the mayor not enforce the law?

Panama is not content if she is not doing something to stir up some one.

Columbia should be taken by the seat of his dirty little pants and given a taste of what Daniel Webster called "Daddy Gave The Drum."

These few people who paid their dog licenses would like to know why the rest of the dog owners have not been forced to come up to time.

A few mad dogs and a few more persons frightened and then perhaps the dog catcher will qualify unless he is Jacksonized out of his job.

That Court street bridge old really hold together long enough for them to begin a new one.

Two years ago Governor LaFollette reckoned with the Social Democrats, this year he has to reckon without them. Honey will not teach the same fly twice if it gets away the first time.

Now they say the Czar's baby is not a boy, but a girl, and that the baby belongs to some one else. High scandal in high life.

The democratic party shook off the domain of Bryanism after a long time perhaps. Wisconsin can have some hopes in the future.

Will they do it? Dare they do it?

Can the dead come to life? Is the law of this country to be contorted to suit the will of one man or one clique?

Russia and Japan still fly at each others threats, only Russia does most of the dodging.

These Nihilists will say nothing to suit their purposes. Poor old Czar.

There is no Democratic platform merely a telegram.

PRESS COMMENT.
Superior Telegram: The man who mistakes the effects of booze for inspiration will have a hard time reaching the top.

Oshkosh Northwestern: It is a strain on the reputation of any family when there is more than one girl in it at the foolish age at the same time.

Chicago Record-Herald: An Indiana man after spending $2,000 for repairs on an automobile that cost him $600 has decided to give it up and wait for the $10 flying machine.

Racine Journal: The gain in Chicago from last year in comparing directory figures is quite small, enabling a number of envious cities to fire off some whizbangs in their leading papers.

Kansas City Journal: The man who gets his jag at the saloon opened by Bishop Potter will be expected to have the family prayers before whipping his wife and demolishing the furniture.

Menasha Record: The LaFollettes are getting ready to pay up. Down in Rock county they are not to name a ticket, but are to have one place on the Democratic ticket and then vote for the whole shooting match.

Chicago Chronicle: The Czar declares that he is happier at the birth of a son than at a victory of his troops, but as he has never experienced the latter sensation it is evident that he speaks loosely.

Chicago Record-Herald: The strike at the stock yards has been rather exciting, but for a genuine communion wait until the first pair of double trowsers appears in Chicago.

St. Louis Republic: Captain Thomas S. Baldwin has tested a new air ship, with which he will compete for the grand prize of $100,000. His air ship is propelled by a pull-machine, not by a pusher and his chances of success are probably greater.

Brooklyn Eagle: A young man in Emporia, Kans., had an open account with a local druggist for two years. The other day he called for his bill. The first item on it was for a box of chocolates and the last was for a nursing bottle. This ought to be a lesson to young men not to let accounts stand open so long.

Eau Claire Leader: The famous Populist, Tom Watson saws that the Populist fires burn fiercely in him. Can it be they are fed with wood alcohol? In speaking of the Democratic party he used more truth than poetry when he said: "It made its appeal to the duty through a megaphone and drafted its platform by telegraph." The truth is the party had to do something out of the usual.

St. Paul Globe: Great Britain has taken a lesson in method from her opponent, and seeks to establish an understanding at Lhasa, just as Russia did at Seoul. The motive is the same in both cases. Under the veneer of civilization and the thin pretenses of international law, the lust of power and the greed of dominion is about as strong as it ever was among those who claim to be the master nations of the earth.

Sometimes you can't tell, from what she has on, whether it's a shirt waist or a girl is going to bed.

It's mighty good practice to be in love with a woman you can't marry because it has already happened to her.

Really Impregnable Fortresses. Gibraltar and Cronstadt are the two most brilliant examples of elaborate, permanent fortresses that have, so far, fully answered all expectations, neither of them since fortification having ever been captured, while most others have at one time or another been taken.

Now they say the Czar's baby is not a boy, but a girl, and that the baby belongs to some one else. High scandal in high life.

A SPINSTER SAYS THAT—

The well man soon forgets the sick man's promises.

Cupid is an excellent shot, but he bags some mighty poor game.

The prize in a matrimonial lottery is often drawn in a perambulator.

Some men are like silver knives; they look bright, but are rather dull.

Ambition often raises a man up for the purpose of giving him a good hard fall.

Of the two evils men choose the least—unless there is more money in the other.

When a woman tugs at a man's purse-strings it is apt to pucker his heart-strings.

It is easier for a woman to set a hen than it is for a man to set a good example.

Many a man who is cramped for time in this world may have time to burn in the next.

You can always judge the wheels in a man's head by the spokes that come out of his mouth.

It's a great pity that men can't find an insurance company willing to take risks on their air castles.

A man seldom forgives an injury until after he has availed himself of an opportunity to get even.

A father likes to have it said that his baby looks like him, but he gets mad if told he resembles the baby.

Some men go to war, fall in battle and are lost; others stay at home, fall in love and are lost in the matrimonial shuffle.

BUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

There is such a thing as carrying your thanks too far.

Ever curse yourself for being a fool? If you never did, you do not know yourself.

The man who is afraid his employer will not give him credit usually doesn't get much.

There is one thing about the man who puts his wages in his wife's lap; the money doesn't go into the joints.

Those who complain they have never received any attention should stay in the house with the flies on a rainy day.

You know how quickly you would rid yourself of a red-hot iron. Well, that is just how rapidly you ought to get rid of a red-hot love affair.

When a man reaches that stage when he must take in "eye opener" when he gets up, a "bracer" at 10 o'clock, an "appetizer" before dinner, "feeler" before supper and a "night cap" before he goes to bed, it is time for some member of his lodge to give him the danger signal.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

It's awful slow work getting popular with your wife's relatives.

A girl who has red hair has got to be mighty pretty to make you forget it.

COUNTY SWEPT BY BIG STORM

WINDMILLS WRECKED AND MANY TREES UPROOTED YESTERDAY.

HOTEL ROOF WAS BLOWN OFF

Hudson House at Stoughton, suffered From Wind's Fury—Water Spout
at Lake Koshkonong.

Janesville, apparently, had all the best of it in the big rain and wind storm that came out of the west Sunday afternoon. One of the strongest gales experienced for years did big damage north of here. At Stoughton the roof of the Hudson House, a large brick building, was blown off and several sheds were wrecked in the surrounding country. Numerous trees were uprooted at Ft. Atkinson.
County Treasurer Miles Rice who returned from Milton this morning says that the grand stand of the ball park was torn to pieces and that several sheds north of town were wrecked.
The telephone service was put out of commission and one or two windmills between Milton and Milton Junction were badly damaged. A number of trees in the neighborhood were uprooted. Some half was reported east of Milton but little was noticed in the village.

Water-Spout at Lake

Horace McElroy who spent Sunday
at Henry Skavlem at Lake Koshkonong was a witness of an unusual phenomenon in the shape of a huge water-spout on the lake. Mr.
Skavlem who came to Janesville this morning says that he saw two fields of tobacco about eight miles north of the city which appeared to be badly peppered by hail. He thinks that it is lucky that the leaf is not so far along as usual and is of the opinion that most of the young plants escaped serious injury from wind and hail where the latter fell.

Played Golf in Storm
The Rock County Telephone Co.
had several of its lines on Milton avenue disabled, and toll-lines of the Wisconsin Co., connecting with Madison, Monroe, and Emerald Grove, demanded the attention of the line crews this morning. Out at the golf links yesterday afternoon a large party was marooned for several hours. M. C. Ihuna and Don Van Wart of Beloit went out in the worst of the storm and played eighteen holes.

PRUNE CROP IS TO BE VERY LARGE

Janesville Connoisseurs Have Vast Opportunities To Test Its Value This Winter.

Janesville will no doubt welcome the news that the prune crop of this season has attained record breaking proportions. It is reported from New York that there are 600,000,000

pears in sight, which, calculating twenty-five prunes to the pound, makes a grand total of 15,000,000,000 prunes waiting to be eaten. This is fifteen prunes for every human being on the globe.

All the prunes that grow are not eaten, however. Some are squeezed for their juice, which is used for adulterating wine and whiskey. The prune market has been a little tight for several seasons and the eastern cities had not enough prunes to go round the boarding house table.

A visit to the local wholesale house disclosed the fact that in all probability

Janesville will have a peanut family this season. The last crop is nearly exhausted and the present crop in Virginia is far below the average. It will be small and late.

Prices have been steadily advancing and an appreciable difference in the size of the "nickle" bags is propised.

Petroleum in Mexico.

A number of oil companies are propecting for petroleum in various parts of Mexico. A gusher has recently been struck near Tampico, on the property of the Mexican Petroleum

Company, which has been striking wells in the region for the last two or three years. Other wells are being sunk near the gusher, and experts believe that the company is about to be rewarded for the money it has spent upon prospecting by the finding of oil in paying quantities.

With the Fighters.

William Rodenbach, Amateur Champion, to Meet Wily Kid McCoy.

William Rodenbach, America's amateur champion heavyweight, is matched to meet Kid McCoy.

The great youngster, who tips the scales at 165 pounds, will soon begin to train for the match, which is scheduled for November or December in San Francisco.

Rodenbach has long been known as the cleverest of the amateur boxers. He won the national championship several years in succession, cutting to ribbons in three round matches such men as Emery Payne and Joseph Knipe. In 1902 he captured the laurels in the United States and Canada, and two months ago fought Sam Berger, the much touted holder of the Pacific coast championship, for the amateur title of the world.

WILLIE RODENBACH.

Berger weighed at the time of the fight nearly 166 pounds and stood head and shoulders over his antagonist. Many professionals, including Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Jeffries, had fought Berger, and all said he was a second Munro. So confident was Berger that he would win the cup offered for the championship that he added $175 of his own money to that put up by the committee in charge of the affair, as he did not consider the trophy selected good enough for him after the fight.

The result of Rodenbach's trip to the coast upset Berger's ideas of owning the cup. Rodenbach cut the big Californian down much after the style of Joe Walcott, hitting him almost anywhere he chose. So disgraced was Berger at his defeat that when Rodenbach after the bout went to shake hands the Californian sprang up and struck the New York man. The easterner replied in kind, and a second battle was being waged merrily when the referee interfered.

Since Rodenbach's return from San Francisco he has been under the care of Paddy Moran, his trainer, doing light work. His elbow was hurt in the fight with Berger.

Rodenbach will compete in the Olympic amateur boxing championship at the world's fair at St. Louis. This will be his last appearance as a "sham pure." After the St. Louis matches, which will take place in September,

KID MCCOY.

He will go to San Francisco and begin work there for his fight with McCoy. Up to this time Rodenbach has not competed in any match that went beyond six rounds, and there is of course some doubt that he will be able to go the fifteen round distance against the more experienced McCoy, to whom the long fights are more familiar.

CHAPTER XXXV.

MRS. CRANSTON followed Lydia into the sitting room, where she was putting on her hat before a mirror.

"You will not compromise yourself by going there, dear?" Mrs. Cranston said excitedly.

"You may call it that if you like," replied the girl, turning as she was thrusting a batpin into place behind her head. "I am going to explain why he has not heard from me."

"Oh, daughter, don't, don't! Think of your family, of me, of your father."

"I'll think of you when I have more time," replied the girl. "I'm going straight to George Buckley now. Mother, I respect him, I honor him more than any man alive. I love him. Yes, I love him with all my heart and soul, and I'm simply furious at the way you have treated us."

"You don't mean that you would actually marry him, Lydia Cranston?"

"Well, you just let him give me the chance and see if I won't. I'd rather live on bread and water with him than with the richest man the sun ever shone on. There, are you satisfied? You and father have been treating me like a child, with no regard for my feelings, but now that you have dared to interfere through me with George Buckley's rights as an American citizen, intercepting his letters when he lay at death's door, treating him as if he were a dog—well, you have simply forced me to do my duty."

"Lydia, daughter!" But the girl had turned into the hall and was walking rapidly across the lawn toward the gate.

She went directly to Hillyer's house.

Hortense was in the yard gathering flowers and greeted her with a surprised smile as she came toward her across the grass.

"Hortense," said Lydia tensely, "I want to see George. May I?"

"Why, yes, of course," said Hortense. "I have just left him. I came after these flowers for his room. Go right up; it's the first door on the left at the head of the stairs. Oh, Lydia, I'm so glad you came; it is very good of you; it will make him so happy. Ever since he was hurt he hasn't..."

"Oh, I know, but it wasn't my fault; that's what I want to explain."

The door of George's room was open. His face was turned from Lydia as she entered the room and he did not look toward her, thinking it was Hortense returning with the flowers. It was not till she stood over him, her burning glance of sympathy on him, that he looked up; then he flushed and started to sit erect.

"Don't, don't, George!" she cried, and she laid her hand softly on his brow and gently pushed him back on his pillow.

"It's kind of you to come," he said. "I really was not—not expecting—that is—"

"No; I know you were not looking for me, George, and I wonder what you have thought of me. I've come to explain and beg you to forgive me. I am not quite as bad as I seem, George. I did not know of the shooting till we returned from Atlanta. I heard the danger was over, but I at once wrote you a letter. I have just discovered that mother intercepted it. Not hearing from you, I wrote another. It also was intercepted, but, not knowing that, I took your silence to mean that you wished all to be over between us."

Buckley was staring at her fixedly.

"What did you write?" he asked.

She was silent; the warm color was mounting into her face; her eyes were downcast.

"Don't you want me to know now what the letters contained?" he questioned gently.

"I—don't see how I can tell you, George, unless—" She paused.

"Unless," he prompted, the fire of hope almost alight in his eyes—"unless?"

"You see," she said, "I don't know how you feel about me right now, and when I wrote it was under the memory of what you said that night in Atlanta."

"I could never change, Lydia. I love you with all my life and soul. I am furnishing for one little word of hope from you. Did your letters?"

"I told you frankly in the first one, George, that I loved you, that I was tired of the way I was being treated at home and that if you wanted me I'd come to you in spite of all the world and consider myself the luckiest woman alive to be your wife, but when you did not answer I hoped there was some mistake, so I wrote another note telling you I had received no reply and that if I did not get one I'd take it that you wished everything over between us. Oh, George, I have been very unhappy! I never realized how much I loved you till I knew you were lying here wounded, and I—" She covered her face with her hands and began to sob softly. He reached out and drew her hands down and held them, while he feasted his eyes on hers.

"God bless you, little woman!" he said. "It seems like a dream. I can't realize that you are here telling me you—you really care for me and are willing to be my wife. Oh, darling, I'm afraid I'll awake. It can't—can't be true!"

"I've loved you for a long time," she said gently, returning the pressure of his hands, "but I did not realize it till that night in the summer house, when I overheard Governor Telfair insult you as he did. You seemed a king among men when you spoke to him as

TRIES TO REACH PRESIDENT

Crank Attempts to Pass the Guards, but Fails in His Purpose.

New York, Aug. 22.—While President Roosevelt and party were being driven from the Jersey City ferry to the Long Island train a supposed crank created an unpleasant scene. At the president's carriage neared South avenue and Twenty-fourth street a big, athletic man sprang into the street in advance of the crowd, and, dodging the mounted police which surrounded the vehicle, tried to reach it. Secret Service Officer Taylor, one of the president's personal guards, sprang from a cab in which he was following the carriage of the president and seized the man before he could reach the step.

MAMMOTH LOG EXHIBIT IN JANESEVILLE.

The mammoth log from Grays Harbor, Wash., which has been exhibited in various cities from Seattle to St. Paul and from St. Paul to Madison, will be shown in Janesville, at the St. Paul freight depot, North Main street, tonight, Tuesday and Tuesday night. The log was cut from a tree that was 275 feet high, and is 36 feet long and 9 feet in diameter. In one-half of the log is a room capable of holding thirty persons and in the other half a den with wild animals from the forests of the Pacific Coast State. The log has been a great novelty in the cities in which it has been seen. Ten Cents is charged to see it.

FIFTEEN DEAD AT TWIN CITIES

front of the theater. All who sought shelter here were saved, as little damage was done to the building in these places. Five men, however, huddled in a corner of the beer garden. When the storm struck the place they were covered with the debris. It was here that the men were killed by flying timbers.

Actress Is Injured.

Theresa Kemp, one of the actresses, was just going to dance upon the stage when the storm struck the beer garden. A rafter from the roof struck her on the left shoulder. Her left arm was broken, and five pieces of glass later were removed from it.

John Johnson, the piano player at the Tivoli, who was waiting to give the cue to Miss Kemp, was cut and bruised by the flying splinters, and remained unconscious for some time.

Across the street the Empire presented little better front than the Tivoli. The storm struck its perch, which runs along the river side, and a portion of it was carried over the roof of the building and landed on Third street. Nearly all the scenery in the theaters was blown into the audience room, and the wardrobes of the actresses in the basement below were swept by the wind into the river.

Skyscraper Windows Break.

The Minnesota club at the corner of Fourth and Cedar street, was damaged, while the Globe office building, a ten-story building, just across the street, escaped with but little injury, only a few panes of glass being broken.

The Pioneer Press building, a thirteen-story brick and steel structure at the corner of Fourth and Robert streets, was riddled by the wind and flying debris. Nearly every window on the south side was shattered, part of the cornice was damaged, and a huge skylight above the court was dashed to pieces, the glass falling like hail in the corridors beneath. There was a stampede among the printers at work in the composing room on the twelfth floor, many of them being cut by flying pieces of glass.

Wholesale District Suffers.

The wholesale houses on Fourth street for two blocks below Robert suffered extensive damage. The storm swept across Smith's park, leveling shade trees. Much damage was done on East Seventh street, between Wauconia and Kitson streets. The Washington school building at Locust and Eighth streets was damaged and St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at Ninth and John streets was unroofed.

The tornado dropped again in Lafayette park and devastated it. On Payne avenue, the principal business street of East St. Paul, many business buildings were damaged. The roundhouse of the Chicago, Minneapolis & St. Paul railroad collapsed and a number of locomotives were damaged.

Church Is Partly Wrecked.

The tower and roof of the fire station at Payne avenue and York street were blown off. The Arlington Hills Presbyterian church was partly wrecked.

The dormitory of the House of the Good Shepherd was badly damaged. One girl was killed and several nuns injured. Harriet Island and the public bathhouse also suffered and most of the trees were uprooted.

The steamships Saturn and Iliawatha, with large crowds of pleasure seekers on board, were caught in the gale and tossed about, and many of those aboard were panic stricken.

Minneapolis In Path.

The center of the storm seemed to hit the business district of Minneapolis, at the corner of Nicollet avenue and Sixth street. Here the immense front of the Glass block was blown out and a huge skylight blown off, the rain doing heavy damage to stock. All of the stores in this district had windows blown in and all suffered more or less damage to stock. The mammoth skylight of the Guaranty Loan building fell twelve stories through the interior court and great damage was done by water to the offices.

The street car service was tied up until noon, trolley wires being down in all parts of the city as the result of falling trees. Thousands of shade trees were broken off or twisted.

ed up by the roots, and several streets are left bare of foliage and shade.

The south side of the city suffered most. Hardly a tree is left along Portland and Park avenues, and the entire side of the city is a mass of splintered trunks, fallen wires, broken windows and damaged buildings. Lightning struck several houses in this part of the city.

COURT HOLDS THAT SON MUST SUPPORT MOTHER

Judge Decrees That Chicago Man Shall Contribute $10 Per Month Toward Her Living Expenses.

Mattoon, Ill., Aug. 22.—In the probate court of Coles county an order has been issued directing John H. McDonald of Chicago to pay $10 a month toward the support of his aged mother, Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, and Miss Florence Mock of Chicago and Roseve Breeden of Charleston are ordered to pay $5 a month each. The two last named are grandchildren of Mrs. McDonald. The suit was brought in the name of the people by State's Attorney Volget to prevent Mrs. McDonald from becoming a public charge. She is 83 years old and her son is 60.

Eight years ago Thomas McDonald, a prosperous farmer at Humboldt, died, leaving property worth $6,000, which he devised to his son and two grandchildren, reserving a life interest for his wife. Part of the property is at 184 Walnut street, Chicago, and is occupied by the son, who, it was charged, mortgaged the property and then ceased paying the monthly income to his mother.

McDonald is an expert accountant and several years ago was comptroller of the city of Springfield, Ill.

Fish Longevity.

According to a recent writer, there is now in the Imperial aquarium of St. Petersburg a pike that first saw the light at the close of the fifteenth century. He still appears to be quite a young fellow, notwithstanding his centuries and his long activity. The writer says that there is nothing very extraordinary in this case, and he mentions several fishes in the same aquarium that are more than 150 years old.

CORSETS FOR THE NOSE.

Beauty Doctor Much in Demand at Present In London Society.

The "smart" set in society—and their followers in humble life—will do almost anything to "improve" their personal appearance.

Cutting nipples has been quite the rage for some time past, and the writer knows that "dimple cutters" in the West End have been doing quite big business during the present season.

Ladies who never dreamed of having nipples before have now what they think admirable specimens upon the face and neck. What will happen when dimples go out of fashion it is difficult to surmise, but no doubt the "beauty doctors" will be able to make the necessary repairs.

Our contemporary, The Medical Press and Circular, in its current issue, deals with another of the latest novelties in this direction. It emanates like other things of the kind—from Paris, and is a "special corset for the nose."

To the practice our medical contemporaries apply this denunciation:

"To lower the art of surgery to the level of mere facial beautification may be sometimes unfulfilled, but to tamper with the anatomical outlines of the human countenance is one of the most insidious forms of quackery when undertaken by unskilled hands, and for the sake of pampering a foolish vanity."—London News.

Met' Catamount 'In Road.

While Warren Gale of Waterbury, Vt., was driving home from Moreland his horse became unmanageable because of fright at something in the underbrush beside the road. A moment later a catamount as large as a shepherd dog leaped into the road ahead of his horse. Horse, cat and man remained perfectly quiet for a few seconds, when the cat suddenly leaped into the woods on the other side of the road and disappeared.

How Many Feathers on Hen?

A New York concern has just closed a unique guessing contest in which the contestants were required to estimate the number of feathers on a hen. Many estimates in the hundreds of thousands were received, several in the millions, the highest estimate being 600,000,017. The correct answer was found to be 8,120.

Spins and Sews Its Nest.

The little tailor-bird not only sews but spins, weaving raw cotton into thread for its own purposes. With this thread it sews with actual stitches a sack of leaves in which to rear its young.

Time Old Not Conquer.

A married couple of Leizn, Austria, celebrated their silver wedding by filing a petition for divorce on the ground of "unconquerable mutual antipathy."
